aboutpackages

About Communications offers packages that combine phone, internet and IT services under one plan to allow you to fully benefit from all aspects of your communications infrastructure.

Based on popular usage trends amongst our customers we have designed three distinct packages to suit your specific business needs.

- Our bronze package is designed to provide high value for those with simple communications needs.
- Our silver package has been adapted for those with more mobile needs including road-warriors, teleworkers and part-time workers.
- Finally, our gold package is designed for professional services firms, especially those with more complex communication needs such as account codes, multi-site conferencing and more data intensive applications.
